Come on Board: delivering diversity in Public Appointments

The Scottish Government Public Appointments Team, in collaboration with Changing the Chemistry, would like to invite you to discover more about the benefits of taking on a board role and find out about the opportunities available on the boards of public bodies.

You may never have considered a board position before – but your experience may be invaluable to a variety of organisations. Come along and explore further!

The session will cover:

- the benefits of being on a board and the experiences of those on boards
- the appointment process for public sector boards and the support and help available
- the range of boards looking for people like you and upcoming vacancies

Attendees at the Come on Board event in March said:

- “Very useful event and one that I would recommend to colleagues”
- “Great event, short and sharp”
- “Felt like a very positive atmosphere and everyone was very enthusiastic”

Date Monday 13 June 2016
Venue The Grand Central Hotel, 99 Gordon Street, Glasgow G1 3SF
Time 17:45 for an 18:00 start, speakers till 19:20, closing at 20:00

You will hear from current board members about their experience and from the Scottish Government Public Appointments Team about the process. The event will also introduce you to Changing the Chemistry and give you the opportunity to network with like-minded people and explore your questions on diversity and board opportunities.

Please book your place via EventBrite or the Scottish Public Appointments Facebook page by 8 June 2016.

If you have any questions about the event, please contact desmond.tinney@gov.scot

Changing the Chemistry (CtC) is a charitable voluntary peer support network headquartered in Scotland that seeks to improve board effectiveness through diversity of thought by helping those from diverse backgrounds secure board roles and by supporting those individuals when they reach the boardroom.

To learn more about Changing the Chemistry, please visit www.changingthechemistry.org or to become a member please email member@changingthechemistry.org.

Many of us don't realise how much we have to offer so even if you are not sure the boardroom is for you, please do come along and learn more. All welcome!
